

You're too poor to gamble, and too smart to bet on which reference source to use first when a research paper is almost due. Your solution?

YOUR LIBRARY, AVAILABLE ONLINE.

The information professionals at your library have invested in databases designed to end your searches with high quality, relevant content to help you make the grade. Student-tested and professor-approved, these sources support typical course content and assignments at your school. And they're online for you to access from anywhere on or off campus, any time of day or night, absolutely free. Sure, you can start with Google, but for a stronger finish – check out your library.
