

ProQuest introduces the Technology Collections: the next generation in Discipline Orientated Databases for engineering, materials science, high technology and related disciplines.

Our renowned Illumina based Abstract and Index (A&I) databases have recently evolved to feature Deep Indexed content as standard – and now comes the addition of Full Text to create the Technology Collections. Libraries can add the full-text components enabling researchers to more easily link out to journal articles held within the ProQuest full-text packages, as well as the library's other full-text holdings.
